Crushed under a fallen elm at the Morgan poultry farm on Lowell street is the auto of Frederick Kydd, badly damaged by the big tree that toppled over during the height of Saturday night's storm. Looks as if several trees have buried the car but all these branches and heavy limbs are part of one tree. (Look Photo)

One of the many reasons why various sections of the town were without heat, light and phone service is this scene on Elm street, near Whittier street, where crashing trees brought down utility poles and wires in a broken, tangled mess. The fallen tree and pole also blocked traffic on the street. (Look Photo)

Early Christmas Mailing Urged

Postmaster Stephen A. Boland issued his annual appeal today for correct addressing and early mailing of Christmas greetings and gifts.

The postmaster predicted that this year's flood of Christmas mail will break 1949's high, when a record number of pieces of holiday mail were cancelled locally.

"Handling this huge volume of Christmas mail will tax post office facilities to the limit," he stated. "But we will get everything delivered by Christmas if we receive the full cooperation of the public."

Christmas packages for distant points should be mailed by Dec. 2, the postmaster advised. Christmas gifts for nearby points should be at the parcel post windows by Dec. 9.

All-Night Parking Ban Starts Dec. 1

The ban on all-night parking goes into effect Friday, Dec. 1 and will continue until Mar. 15.

This means that during the winter months cars must be off the streets from midnight to 6 a.m.

Police Chief George A. Dane warns motorists that police will check streets for cars after midnight and all found after the deadline will be towed away. The ban is put into effect each year so parked cars will not interfere with plowing operations after a snow storm.

P. O. JOBS FILLED

It was announced at the post office this morning that no further applications for Christmas work will be accepted.

Phone Users Favor Change

A large majority of Andover phone subscribers who have responded to the telephone company's poll are in favor of extended area service according to returns received up to today.

This trend has been marked in all of the balloting since the company sent out letters to its 4300 Andover subscribers about two weeks ago. While the survey is hardly more than half completed the large majority of return post cards received continues to be in favor of the change from the present system of making a toll charge on calls between Andover and Lawrence.

The company will not proceed with the change, however, until it is assured that it has an expression of the majority of all of its local customers.

Returns are coming in daily and Manager J. Russell Dolan urges all those who have not already done so to fill out their cards and return them so that the company may have a clear-cut decision of all its Andover customers before taking further action.

Noted Soloists For "Messiah"

The Andover Male choir and the Andover Choral society will present Handel's immortal "Messiah" at the Cochran chapel at 8.15 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17.

The public is invited to hear this work which will be given under the direction of J. Everett Collins with Raymond Wilkinson at the organ and Ellen Stahle pianist.

Three outstanding soloists have been engaged for the performance, Doris Karamourtopoulis, soprano; Eunice Albers of Andover, contralto, and Donald Sullivan, tenor.

The chorus of 100 has been working diligently for the past several weeks and everything points to a grand performance.

BOOSTERS CAMPAIGN

Reports of the membership drive were heard at a meeting of the Boosters' committee last night and further plans were made to continue the campaign to increase the ranks of the organization.

Wild Storm Leaves Homes Without Heat And Light

Andover Losing Many Old Elms

Andover is losing many of its fine old elm trees because of the dutch elm disease.

In the past several weeks the tree department has taken down 52 elms which were affected by the disease. The largest to fall was one on Lowell street about eight feet in diameter. It is estimated that it cost the town $860 to remove this old giant.

Some of the other trees that have been taken down recently measured five feet in diameter, the others ranging all the way down the scale to six inches in diameter.

About 20 per cent of the trees thus removed belonged to the town, the others were off the street on private property. All of the town trees and many of the others on private land had been sprayed several times. Some were beyond the reach of the sprayer.

The tree department received a $4000 appropriation at the town meeting last March for its fight

TREE SURGEONS

Bracing and cabling protects trees against winter damage!

Tel. Manchester 300

The wild storm that hit eastern United States Saturday bringing death and destruction in numerous communities left hundreds of Andover homes without heat and light as it felled trees and utility poles which brought a tangled mass of broken wires to the ground with them.

Sweeping up the Atlantic seaboard from Virginia to New England, and reaching inland to Detroit, the storm brought heavy snow and biting cold in Ohio and Western Pennsylvania and lashed the seaboard states with heavy rains driven by winds of hurricane force.

It was the roughest storm experienced here since the hurricane of 1938.

Crews of the Lawrence Gas & Electric Co., and the New England Tel. & Tel. Co., worked day and night to restore service disrupted by broken wires. They had to spread their forces all over the Greater Lawrence area where similar damage had to be repaired.

The telephone company reported Monday morning that about 800 phones in Andover were still out of service mainly due to cable trouble on South Main, Salem, Lowell and Phillips streets. They had six extra crews from Boston assisting in making repairs here.

Storm Leaves Homes
Minus Heat, Light

Alerted early Saturday afternoon about the approaching storm most of the police department remained on duty all night.

The board of public works had four crews working all day Sunday clearing manholes that had become clogged with leaves and sand. Very little damage to roads was reported.

The tree department worked all through the night and Sunday and had an emergency crew available Sunday night as it faced the task of clearing more fallen trees and broken branches since the hurricane of 1938.

Most of the trees uprooted here were elms. They were felled in every section of the town, some of them blocking traffic as they crashed down into the streets.

Two trees combined to create damage at the home of Charles A. Hill, 13 Chestnut st. One fell in front of the garage door and over a clothes line, and the other, split asunder by the wind, crashed down through the roof of the ell of the house.

A large tree was uprooted and fell through the sun porch of the old Southworth property at School and Abbot streets now owned by Abbot academy; an elm fell across Elm street at Whittier street; a large elm at Morton and Main streets toppled over and hung over the street on cables; another at Elm and Walnut avenue fell across wires; one fell across Highland road near Summer street; and another elm was toppled on Abbot street near the Livingston greenhouses; and one was down across Lowell street near Lovejoy road. Further up Lovejoy road a big ash fell across the roadway blocking traffic.

Interruption of electric and telephone service brought a flood of calls to the utilities companies as well as to the police, fire and tree departments. Some service was restored Sunday, other sections of the town had to wait much longer.

While Ohio and Western Pennsylvania had snow and freezing temperatures which crippled large population centers the temperatures locally remained in the upper 40's during the storm. Essex company records showed that Saturday night and Sunday 2.48 inches of rain fell.

Lack of heat caused the closing of the Bradlee school in Ballardvale Monday morning, giving the 85 pupils an extra holiday. All other public schools and St. Augustine's opened as usual.

The storm did some damage to the school buildings which Supt. Kenneth L. Sherman estimated at about $750. The copper coping was blown off the roof of the high school, a door was broken in the Bradlee school, and several windows broken in other school buildings.

Early today phone officials said that all service had been restored in Andover. Electric company officials said that all house service was back to normal except in a few cases where there were broken wires on their own premises, and that street light service had been restored save in a few isolated sections off the Reading road. These they expected to be repaired soon.

Christmas cards destined for out-of-the-state should be deposited by Dec. 15, and cards for local delivery at least a week before the holiday.

"Please don't hold up your mailings until these dates, however," the postmaster pleaded. "Mail packages, especially, as soon as you have them ready."

To meet the peak Yuletide rush, the post office has already begun training extra mail clerks and carriers, setting up new sorting tables and providing reserve mail sacks.

"Please stop in next week and purchase the stamps you'll need for your Christmas cards and letters," the postmaster asked. He urged purchase of three-cent stamps for mailing greetings first-class. Cards may then be sealed, contain written messages, and can be forwarded or returned without additional charge.

The postmaster also suggested: "Get a few air mail and special delivery stamps, too, for speeding your greetings to friends you may remember at the last minute."

"Buying stamps is one part of your Christmas shopping that can be completed really early. It will save you valuable time in December, when the holiday rush begins and the post office lines are long."

The postmaster also advised early purchase of heavy fiberboard, sturdy wrapping paper, strong cord, and printed fourth class labels for parcel post. He pointed out that fragile items must be individually cushioned in a strong shipping carton such as a fiberboard box. Packages are limited to 70 pounds in weight, and must not exceed

Names Committee To Build Schools

100 inches in length and girth combined.

Christmas seals and "Do Not Open Until Christmas" stickers should be placed only on the backs of packages. "Some packages carry more stickers and labels than an overseas steamer trunk," the postmaster declared. "Keep the face of your packages clear for the address and mailing instructions if you want to speed delivery."

The personnel of the committee is: Herbert P. Carter, Gordon L. Colquhoun, Roy E. Hardy, Harold T. Houston, C. Carleton Kimball, Kenneth L. Sherman and Stanley F. Swanton.

The duties of the first committee ended when it presented its plans and recommendations to the special town meeting.

COMPLIMENT TO ANDOVER SCHOOLS

It was a very nice compliment the school department of Topsfield paid the Andover school system in its recent request that 100, and eventually 150 junior and senior high pupils of the neighboring town be schooled here in the next ten years.

While such an arrangement would be of financial advantage to Andover, the school committee, seeing the wave of additional pupils now coming through the grade schools, had to turn it down to provide for the enlarged enrollment that will hit the junior and senior high schools in a few more years.

A group of about 40 Boxford pupils are being schooled here at the present time. They are a fine addition to the schools as would be a number of boys and girls from Topsfield, but the local board feels that it is just out of question to consider any further increase.

The Topsfield school building is overcrowded and the town must place pupils elsewhere or build an addition to the present structure.

Andover, which has just authorized the expenditure of $1,200,000 on new school buildings, sympathizes with her neighbor and also appreciates the high regard which other towns have for her school system.

DO CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY

The Christmas influence is beginning to make itself evident in shops and stores where our merchants are getting ready to help Santa Claus solve some of his many Yuletide problems.

The traditional red and green colors of the holiday seen flashing through store and window decorations are reminders of the coming season and should warn the canny shopper that there are only 20 more shopping days to Christmas.

Despite frequent warnings to shop early there will be many who put this chore off until the last minute. Perhaps they do not realize they lose out in many ways. They will not get the wide variety of selection that falls to the early shopper, not the more leisurely manner to choose gifts while being served by clerks still free from the strain that comes with the last-minute rush.

Do your Christmas shopping early. Our merchants have thousands of dollars worth of merchandise available for your selections. They may have just the presents you are looking for. Get busy. There are only 20 more shopping days to Christmas.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— By John Fisher

Russia Would Force Poles To Love Their Masters

As the German international crisis thickens, Stalin is discovering that Poland has not yet been hewed into a submissive satellite, dependable in the event of war in Northern Europe.

Hence a new program of organized high pressure has been inaugurated "to deepen," according to Adam Rapacki of the Polish Politburo, "the feeling of love and esteem for the Soviet Union."

Previous synthetic solidarity gestures failed to erase bitter memories of Russian treachery to General Bor-Komorowski's World War II home army, the massacres of Polish officers in the Katyn forest and more recent outrages. Poles—as they must—sullenly bow to police clubs and machine guns, but in their hearts they are still anti-Russian.

The latest instrument to influence Polish public opinion has been the second World Peace congress, transferred to Warsaw from England after London refused to allow the phony Congress to meet there.

The ousted delegates poured into Warsaw and shouted themselves hoarse denouncing "Anglo-Saxon warmongers" and accusing America of "flooding Korea with the blood of children and performing all sorts of fascist bestialities."

Demonstrations Fully Organized

These malicious pro-Soviet fulminations were the most recent of several pep talks. Propaganda bosses in October ordered demonstrations everywhere to celebrate the 33rd anniversary of the Russian Bolshevik revolution.

In September a National Peace congress was held. About 25,000 local kick-off meetings preceded the climactic assembly in Warsaw. The stellar role at this hate fest went to Lieut. Col. Yu Kan Buk, a North Korean officer, who regaled an audience of 100,000 with fresh lies about American aggression in the orient.

In addition to these three major "peace" hippodromes, the month of November was reserved for local efforts to cement Polish-Soviet friendship.

Such super-doses of prolonged, high-pitched ballyhoo are deemed necessary by commissar psychologists because the Polish people, next door neighbors to vulnerable Russia, show scant signs of adoration of their masters and display many indications that in case of war and the opportunity came they would give Russia the swerve.

Again and again at various mass meetings Red tub-thumpers urged their listeners to be on guard against a rising tide of "subversive activities"—open admission that Poles are not turning into Communists despite propaganda, bribes and Red terror.

More Liquidation Threatened

Nevertheless the Bierut government, obedient to Moscow, uses every possible means to force its recalcitrant subjects to conform to the Soviet pattern. A recent Twenty-eight members of Lewis family met for their Thanksgiving day dinner at West church vestry.

Andover Community orchestra to make its first appearance Dec. 7, at auditorium with Susan Ripley, violinist, Elizabeth MacLeod accompanist, and Jesse Higgins, piano, among soloists.

Mrs. George H. Musk chairman of large committee in charge of fair at Christ church.

Warsaw broadcast set as a goal the new Six-Year plan the "elimination of the capitalist elements in our economy through curbing, expulsion and liquidation."

Communists are absorbing the entire educational system so that hereafter youthful minds will be completely molded by the Reds. A commission of Russian and Polish communist educators have injected the party line into all school textbooks, except histories.

This latter subject also is being doctored. But the visiting savants had some difficulties in persuading their Polish comrades to distort in Russia's favor the record of Polish victories over the Bolshevik armies in the local war of 1920.

College professors are held strictly accountable to political mentors on faculties. Most older students are not Communists. But party membership is on the up in lower classes as high schools now are dominated by the ZMP, the Polish Communist Youth organization.

A high school student no longer can gain admission to a university unless sponsored by his local ZMP. College members of this order receive all the scholarships, free meals, inexpensive lodgings and other advantages and they run nearly all student activities, including state-financed vacation trips.

Firm Control of Forces

Equally powerful pressure is exerted to make communist zealots of soldiers. Since iron-fisted Soviet Marshal Rokossovsky assumed supreme command, the organization of the Polish army has been patterned on the Soviet army system. The two top generals of the ground and air forces are Soviet citizens. In fact, the entire officer class is saturated with Russians. Promising young Polish officers are sent to military schools in the Soviet Union.

The equipment of the army was poor when Rokossovsky took over. He introduced a few Russian jet fighter planes and some modern artillery which is displayed for propaganda purposes. But most units are below combat strength and are armed with Polish, Russian and German wartime leftovers.

Rearmament was not the most pressing problem. Rokossovsky found the army so indifferent to communism and so cold toward Russia that his chief efforts have been directed to indoctrination. Lectures on Marxist ideology consume more time than even drill. Communist youth cells are being organized in every unit. The soldier's oath now reads: "I swear to stand steadfastly guardian peace side by side with the Soviet army."

Tradition of Patriotism

But even this concentrated indoctrination has not solidified bonds with Russia. The Polish military arm has a long tradition of patriotism and pride. Younger officers and their men resent taking orders from arrogant Soviet majors and colonels.

the hitting power, Polish soldiers in tracks sang old, tabooed Polish army songs filled with anti-Russian sentiment.

Rumor that Polish units would be sent to bolster the North Korean spark a surge of desertions. In July 200 Polish naval officers were arrested on suspicion of disloyalty to Russia. Moscow is so doubtful of the Polish army that the Kremlin has recently heavily increased Soviet garrisons in Lower Silesia and Pomerania.

Polish antagonism for Russia should not be construed to mean an early peoples' revolt or a military mutiny. But so long as Poland has the power and the will to drag her heels, Stalin cannot count on reliable military support for his martial adventures.

War Situation Stirs Interest In Civil Defense

The sudden reverses for the United Nations troops in Korea have spurred many local citizens to take new interest in the civil defense program, Albert Cole Jr., stated today.

Up to then the task of organizing the different services was slowed down by the apathy and unconcern of most townspeople but Tuesday's news brought several inquiries about volunteering for one of the many groups into which the defense program has divided.

There are several divisions of the organization for which volunteers are needed. The main ones are: Medical and health; rescue, transportation and evacuation; police; fire; communications; public utilities; civilian war aid.

Many of these are broken down into several units of operation so that every man and woman in the town who is qualified to serve in some part of the organization should register immediately at the civil defense office. Those interested in the auxiliary police force may call on Sgt. Hickey at the police station; those interested in the auxiliary fire department may contact Chief C. Edward Buchan; those who wish to volunteer for any phase of Red Cross work should call at the chapter headquarters at Elm and High streets.

Fire In Chair Damages Home

Fire in an upholstered chair caused considerable damage in the living room at the home of James Caldwell, 5 Upland rd., Tuesday afternoon.

No members of the family were at home at the time. The blaze was discovered by a neighbor who notified the central fire station and box 48 was sounded from there at 1.52 p. m. There was some smoke damage as well as damage by fire which spread to the curtains and walls.

WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. Renee M. Watts, 10 Dartmouth rd., was released from the Lawrence General hospital following treatment for superficial cuts about the face and legs received when the car she was driving struck a girder on the White Pups bridge, Lawrence, early Wednesday morning.

REGISTRATION PLATES

Because of mail conditions Rudolph F. King, registrar of motor vehicles, announces that it will be impossible to guarantee delivery of registration plates before Jan. 1, on applications received in the mail after Dec. 4. He urges motorists to take advantage of the "over-the-counter" service provided in all branch offices of the registry.

Punchard Swamps Johnson In Holiday Game 32 To 18

In a high scoring game replete with thrills Punchard romped over its Thanksgiving day rival Johnson High of North Andover, 32 to 18 before a crowd of 4000 at the playstead last Thursday morning.

In this 29th annual clash Punchard scored quickly, only to have the visitors tie it up right away. Punchard forged ahead steadily with its line opening up holes in the visitors frontier through which the speedy Blue and Gold backs scampered for long runs.

At the end of the half Punchard was leading 19-6. The third period was scoreless but in the fourth quarter each team thrilled its supporters by scoring two touchdowns.

Johnson played the second half with the services of Capt. Driscoll, one of its best ball-luggers, who suffered a dislocated shoulder while returning a kickoff in the second period.

By its victory Punchard captured the Little Three title by virtue of its victories over Methuen and Johnson.

In the battle of statistics Punchard made 17 first downs, Johnson six, netted 271 yards rushing to their opponents' 60, completed two forwards for 38 yards to Johnson's five completed forwards for 141 yards.

The starters who were playing their final games for Punchard were Co-captains Charles Dwyer and Cliff Lawrence, both backs; Tom Wilkinson back; Dave Brucato and Joe Kelsey, ends.

For the 1951 eleven Coach Walter Roberts will have Bob Hathaway, back; John Ross and John Dolan, tackles; Sid Watson and Bob Stefani, guards; Don Valz, center.

The summary:

Punchard—Brucato, le., Ross, lt., Watson, lg., Valz, C., Stefani, rg., Dolan, rt., Efinger, re., Dwyer, qb., Lawrence, lhb, Wilkinson, rhb., Hathaway, fb.
